Mayor Imler welcomed Arlene Setzer, Representative of the 40th District to our Council meeting.

Ron Foeller, representing the Ohio Consumer's Counsel, gave a brief presentation on electric deregulation. Mr. Foeller spoke on the advantages of the electric and natural gas choice programs, how to shop for a new supplier, consumer protections and other helpful information to make the transition to a competitive marketplace a successful one. Previously, one company provided all parts of your electricity including generation (the production of electricity at the power plant), transmission (the poles that carry electricity from the power plant through the countryside) and distribution (the poles and wires used to deliver the electricity to your home). With Electric Choice, you will now be able to choose the company that supplies the generation portion of your electric service. Electric Choice offers you the opportunity to comparison shop for electricity just like you do for any other goods and services. Mr. Foeller reported aggregation allows consumers to pool together utility usage or load and form a buying group. Group purchasing, or aggregation, may allow consumers to secure greater buying power in a competitive market. Mr. Foeller stated the Ohio Consumers' Counsel is the legal representative and residential utility advocate serving as a resource for individuals who have questions and concerns or would like more information, about the services provided by the publicly owned electric, natural gas, telephone and water companies. The state agency also educates consumers about utility issues and resolves complaints from individuals. To receive utility information brochures, schedule a presentation or file a utility complaint, residential consumers may contact 1-877-PICKOCC(1-877-742-5622) or visit the OCC website at www.pickocc.org.

Carl Snedeker, of 857 Shaney Lane, thanked Law Director Stephan for responding to his letter. He stated he would like a representative from the City of Brookville present at a meeting between the developer and homeowners of the Arlington Woods Subdivision. If anyone has any questions, they can call the city offices at 833-2135.
